THE GREAT FIRE OF 1922

It's hard to imagine the scope of water damage in New Bern on December 2, 1922 when the river was raised by the storm that hit the coast in North Carolina. Several streets washed together to leave over 1,000 people homeless, one structural building destroyed, hundreds of jobs lost and one-fourth of the town in ruins. Fortunately only one person was killed.

The following events transpired to make the catastrophe:

- Nearly 400 people, including many firefighters, were in Raleigh as with the New Bern High School football team camped in the Eastern Regional Championship game.
- An 80-hour fire at the Rowland Lumber Company - the town's largest lumber yard - drew the entire firefighting force to town, leaving no backup for other fires.
- A chimney fire on Kilmarnock Street started about an hour later. By the time firefighters and their equipment arrived from the Rowland fire, three houses were ablaze and beyond control.
- Steady gale force winds were blowing flames eastward toward the town.

JUST DOWN THE ROAD

...from New Bern in Craven county, Havelock is home to MCAS Cherry Point.

Havelock is one of eight cities in the world named for Sir Henry Havelock, two of which are in Canada, three in the United States; one in Swaziland (Southern Africa) and two in New Zealand. An island in the Indian Ocean is also named for him. Settled before the Revolutionary War, Havelock welcomed the United States Marine Corps in 1940. Today, visitors are often seen craning their necks as Harriers or a Prowler streaks by overhead. Local residents are used to the roar acknowledged by a sign near the base's main gate, which reads: "Pardon our Noise; It's the Sound of Freedom."
